

Shell Docket FAA-2007-3330-0001 for FAA Section 333 Petitions

Overview

This Docket, FAA-2007-3330, is referred to as the “FAA Section 333 Petitions Shell Docket”. If you are submitting a petition for an exemption to the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) under Section 333 of the FAA Modernization and Reform Action of 2012 (Public Law 112-95), please make your submission to this Docket. If your petition is not related to Section 333 please go to docket number “FAA-2007-0001.”

Process

Before submitting your petition, please review the FAA’s Website here.

Once your petition has been submitted, it will be processed, assigned a permanent Docket Number, and posted to Regulations.gov. Due to the high volume of submissions, please allow up to 8 weeks for processing of your petition. Until it has been posted and assigned a Docket Number, you will receive a “Comment Tracking Number Match” message when searching your comment tracking number; rest assured, your submission has been received, and is in the queue to be posted.

When your Docket Number has been assigned and your petition has been posted, the FAA will begin the petition review process. For most petitions, this review process takes less than 120 days; however, factors such as petition completeness, complexity, and volume of requests may affect the length of time needed to process your petition. The FAA will contact you if additional information is needed to process your petition. Otherwise, you may not hear from the FAA until a decision letter is issued.
